CATALOGUE

OF THE

LAW DEPARTMENT

OF THE

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

BY CHARLES H. W. MEEHAN.

WASHINGTON:
1860.

PREFACE.

The Law Department comprises most of the works of a juridical nature belonging, at the present time, to the Library of Congress, and contained in Chapters XVIII to XXIII, both inclusive, of Mr. Jefferson's classification of the library. This classification it has been deemed best not to change. When Congress purchased the library of Mr. Jefferson in 1815, it contained but 639 volumes of law books. This department now numbers 15,939 volumes of works exclusively treating of law. There are also in the Library of Congress many works of a partly legal and partly political character which are more appropriately classed in the complete chapter on Politics, besides an eminently rich and full chapter on International Law. It has been thought expedient to duplicate in this collection a few of those volumes for convenience.

This Catalogue has been compiled with great labor, in the earnest desire to render the titles with exactness, and much care has been taken to supply the names of authors of anonymous works, and also to give the places of publication and dates when wanting. C. H. W. M.
